

What can you do ?

A Federal Election will be called for October 2019.

In the lead up to the election, talk to every candidate who comes to your door, speak up at all candidate meetings and let the politicians know that this issue is important to you. Ask the following question:

Canada has not yet honoured its commitment to contribute 0.7 percent to international assistance. It stands at a dismal 0.28%, almost an all-time low. As a result, many development programs have suffered.

What is your position/your party's position on Canada reaching this target of 0.7% commitment to international assistance? What do you consider to be an achievable target date?

What can you do ?

A Federal Election will be called for October 2019.

In the lead up to the election, talk to every candidate who comes to your door, speak up at all candidate meetings and let the politicians know that this issue is important to you. Ask the following question:

Canada has not yet honoured its commitment to contribute 0.7 percent to international assistance. It stands at a dismal 0.28%, almost an all-time low. As a result, many development programs have suffered.

What is your position/your party's position on Canada reaching this target of 0.7% commitment to international assistance? What do you consider to be an achievable target date?

What can you do ?

A Federal Election will be called for October 2019.

In the lead up to the election, talk to every candidate who comes to your door, speak up at all candidate meetings and let the politicians know that this issue is important to you. Ask the following question:

Canada has not yet honoured its commitment to contribute 0.7 percent to international assistance. It stands at a dismal 0.28%, almost an all-time low. As a result, many development programs have suffered.

What is your position/your party's position on Canada reaching this target of 0.7% commitment to international assistance? What do you consider to be an achievable target date?

What can you do ?

A Federal Election will be called for October 2019.

In the lead up to the election, talk to every candidate who comes to your door, speak up at all candidate meetings and let the politicians know that this issue is important to you. Ask the following question:

Canada has not yet honoured its commitment to contribute 0.7 percent to international assistance. It stands at a dismal 0.28%, almost an all-time low. As a result, many development programs have suffered.

What is your position/your party's position on Canada reaching this target of 0.7% commitment to international assistance? What do you consider to be an achievable target date?

Why Canada needs to contribute more to International Assistance

- Canada made a commitment to contribute 0.7% of Gross National Income (GNI) to international assistance in 1970 but has never reached that target.
- Although Canada is a relatively rich country, we currently contribute 0.28% which is below the average of other contributing countries, and nearing the lowest level in our history.
- An increase in international assistance means more money to provide food for the world's hungry, to protect children in war-torn countries, to provide drugs to treat AIDS, to support grandmothers in their crucial roles as caregivers and community leaders and to provide for education and life-long learning.
- For more information go to: www.grandmothersadvocacy.org

Why Canada needs to contribute more to International Assistance

- Canada made a commitment to contribute 0.7% of Gross National Income (GNI) to international assistance in 1970 but has never reached that target.
- Although Canada is a relatively rich country, we currently contribute 0.28% which is below the average of other countries and nearing the lowest level in our history.
- An increase in international assistance means more money to provide food for the world's hungry, to protect children in war-torn countries, to provide drugs to treat AIDS, to support grandmothers in their crucial roles as caregivers and community leaders and to provide for education and life-long learning.
- For more information go to: www.grandmothersadvocacy.org

Why Canada needs to contribute more to International Assistance

- Canada made a commitment to contribute 0.7% of Gross National Income (GNI) to international assistance in 1970 but has never reached that target.
- Although Canada is a relatively rich country, we currently contribute 0.28% which is below the average of other contributing countries, and nearing the lowest level in our history.
- An increase in international assistance means more money to provide food for the world's hungry, to protect children in war-torn countries, to provide drugs to treat AIDS, to support grandmothers in their crucial roles as caregivers and community leaders and to provide for education and life-long learning.
- For more information go to: www.grandmothersadvocacy.org

Why Canada needs to contribute more to International Assistance

- Canada made a commitment to contribute 0.7% of Gross National Income (GNI) to international assistance in 1970 but has never reached that target.
- Although Canada is a relatively rich country, we currently contribute 0.28% which is below the average of other contributing countries, and nearing the lowest level in our history.
- An increase in international assistance means more money to provide food for the world's hungry, to protect children in war-torn countries, to provide drugs to treat AIDS, to support grandmothers in their crucial roles as caregivers and community leaders and to provide for education and life-long learning.
- For more information go to: www.grandmothersadvocacy.org